REVIEWS IN BRIEF NEW YORK

Jason Simon

Callicoon Fine Arts // November 8–December 20, 2015

Liberty Green hosts a soul and funk show on a public radio station in Upstate New York; her listeners include inmates at local state and federal prisons, and their correspondence over the years has come to shape the show's format and direction. With a subtle hand and an elegant sense of place, Simon offers a layered document of the intersection of mass culture and mass incarceration with found objects, photographs of the radio station and Green's home, an installation displaying a selection from the more than 8,000 letters Green has received, and audio offering an archival sample of the radio show.
